

BESSE ON STAND,
DENIES CHARGES OF GOVERNMENT

The Former Prosecutor Of Whiteside Co. Has
Day In Court

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(AP)—From the witness stand in Federal Judge Walter Lindley's court, Robert W. Besse, former State's Attorney of Whiteside county, made a general denial today of the government's charge that he participated in an alleged midwest liquor syndicate.

Besse denied complicity in or knowledge of the operation of a still on a farm near Fulton.

This alleged operation was used by the U. S. District Attorney's office to link Besse with the conspiracy charge.

The former State's Attorney, one time president of the State's Attorney's Association of Illinois, said he had owned the farm at one time, but not for two years prior to the time the government claimed the still was operated.

Besse, a graduate of the University of Michigan in 1910, with a law office in Chicago, said he had lived in Whiteside county all his life and in Sterling since leaving college.

Important Defendant
The one time law enforcement official was one of the last important defendants still contesting the government's case. Others have pleaded either nolo contendere or guilty.

All were indicted for conspiring to manufacture and transport hundreds of thousands of gallons of liquor. The syndicate's operations, the government contends, operated across Illinois into Waterloo and Clinton Iowa.

It was Harold Kane, one time tenant on the farm, who testified for the government that Besse knew of the still's operation.

Before Besse was called, Gerald Wiley, defense attorney, introduced several witnesses who testified they would not believe Kane under oath.

Besse said that he had at one time represented Kane, who, at the time the government claimed the still was operated, was under probation on another liquor charge; and that he also was attorney for Arthur Cooper, another defendant, on some guardship matters.

His only visit to the farm during Kane's operation, Besse said, was in company with Cooper once when he had a party interested in its purchase.

Prominent Banker
Dies In New York

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Paul Moritz Warburg, 65, descended on a banking dynasty cradled in Germany in the eighteenth century and one of the foremost banking authorities in America, is dead.

His death last night was the third of a year among powerful figures of finance. George F. Baker died last spring and Dwight Morrow in October.

Warburg, especially remembered as the prophet who warned against the Wall Street crash of 1929 six months before it took place, was Chairman of the Boards of the Manhattan Company and the International Acceptance Bank of New York.

Mrs. Warburg survives, with two children, James M. Warburg, president of the International Acceptance Bank of New York, and Miss Bettina Warburg, as well as a brother, Felix M. Warburg.

Mrs. Warburg early last month suffered a paralytic stroke.

During the World War and after, the Warburg family played a prominent part in finances on two sides of the Atlantic—Paul Warburg becoming a member of the Federal Reserve Board in the United States, while Max Warburg was a leading figure in finance in Germany.

President's Main Interest Is Nation

Chicago, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley pictured President Hoover last night as the first of the nation's Chief Executives to face courageously an economic reversal and try to lead the nation to recovery.

Addressing the Commercial Club, he held up as milestones of Hoover leadership the new Reconstruction Finance Corporation the $500,000,000 credit pool, the war debt and reparations moratorium, the National Relief Commission and other projects.

"I have been told that the President's proposal to increase taxes in these hard times would mean his defeat for reelection," Hurley declared. "My answer is that the President is far more concerned in the welfare of this republic than he is in his own political future."

He touched on the economic system with the remark that concentration of wealth in the hands of a few appeared to be one of its biggest weaknesses.

CONTINUE MURDER CASE

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 25.—(UP)—Postponement for two weeks of the trial of Carl Keesacker, Peoria, Ill., charged with the murder of Harry Rohrer Milwaukee, was granted in Municipal Court today. Leo Slensky, defense counsel who jut entered the case, requested the delay. Rohrer was shot without warning in a road-house north of here Nov. 22. Keesacker was identified by witnesses as the assailant and was captured while driving toward Chicago.

STATE TO CLOSE
CASE IN MURDER
HEARING TODAY

Indications Are Jury
Will Get Negress'
Case Tomorrow

State's Attorney Mark C. Keller completed the presentation of testimony before Judge Harry Edwards, and a jury in the Circuit Court early this afternoon in the trial of Elizabeth Dunn for the alleged murder of Deputy Sheriff Eli Davis at the Dixon state hospital on the night of Sunday, June 14. Two of the state witnesses were recalled to be questioned when court convened this afternoon. The confession alleged to have been made by the woman, the revolver she is said to have used and Davis' gun were to be presented as the state closed early this afternoon.

Indications this afternoon pointed to an early conclusion of the trial as it was expected that only a few witnesses would be called by the defense. In this event the taking of testimony will be concluded this afternoon. The arguments will probably occupy the greater part of tomorrow and it is expected that the case will not go to the jury before late tomorrow afternoon.

Prof. John Garstang, director of the Marston archaeological expedition in Egypt, notified Sir Charles Marston here that according to discoveries in the tombs of the kings of Jerico, it appeared that Princess Hathas was Moses' discoverer.

The Princess ruled in Egypt jointly with Totmes III.

Congress' Leaders
Ask Strict Economy

Washington, Jan. 25.—(UP)—The leaders of the House, Democratic and Republican alike, have joined in an effort to block all bills calling for new expenditures by the federal government.

To the chairman of every House committee Speaker Garner, Democratic Leader Rainey and Republican Leader Snell sent a letter saying:

"It is our sincere hope that no bill authorizing additional appropriations will be reported at this session unless very compelling and urgent reasons can be shown therefor."

"Payroll retrenchment," in the government was declared to be "imperative" by a committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce. The committee, headed by Matthew S. Sloan, president of the New York Edison Company, advocated:

Consolidation of the War and the Navy Departments;

A review of federal aid to the states, notably for highway construction;

Elimination of some of the Agriculture and Labor Departments social and educational work;

Elimination of some of the Commerce Department's foreign trade work.

A halt on expansion of public works construction, especially with borrowed funds.

Senator Long Burns
His Fingers Today

Washington, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Senator Huey Long, Dem., La., began his legislative career today by smashing two Senate precedents. He was escorted to the Vice President's desk by Minority Leader Robinson instead of by his colleague and political enemy, Senator Broussard, Dem., La.

The other precedent was shattered when the Senator entered the chamber with a lighted cigar. He left his cigar on Robinson's desk when it was necessary to stand before Curtis and burned his fingers as he put it down.

Smoking is not permitted in the Senate.

SHOCK PROVED FATAL

St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 25.—(UP)—The shock of learning that he had arrived too late for his father's funeral was blamed today for the sudden death here of William Mathews of Taylorville, Ill.

The father, Alexander Mathews, was buried last Tuesday. When the son arrived here and was informed of this he became ill and died three hours later.

TWO DEMOCRATS
NAMED TO BOARD OF RELIEF CORP.

The President Nominates
Southerners To Important Posts Today

BULLETIN
Washington, Jan. 25.—(UP)—The Senate Appropriations committee approved the $500,000,000 Reconstruction Corporation appropriation bill today and Chairman Jones announced he would seek to bring it up for immediate passage in the Senate. The House passed the bill Saturday.

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Two southerners were named today to the board that will direct a two billion dollar injection to quicken the pulse of business.

Harvey C. Couch of Arkansas and Jesse H. Jones of Texas were appointed by President Hoover as two of the three Democratic directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. A third probably will be named in a short time.

Quick confirmation of the nominations is expected of the Senate, along with that of Charles Gates Dawes—named to be President of the Corporation.

Only these formalities and the passage by the Senate of the measure appropriating $500,000,000 are necessary to get the corporation ready to function financially.

Other Board Members
The other directors are Eugene Meyer, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board; Paul Bestor, Farm Loan Commissioner; and Secretary Mellon.

Couch, financier, Pine Bluff, is well known in the Capital through various industrial and other activities.

Jones was especially active in connection with the last Democratic National Convention held in his home city—Houston.

The recommendations of Democratic congressional leaders had a large part in guiding the selections. Speaker Garner is a Texan and Senator Robinson, party floor leader, an Arkansan.

White House officials said today, shortly after the President named Couch and Jones, that the Chief Executive now is interested primarily in legislation designed to relieve depositors in closed banks. At the same time, is intent on continued reduction in governmental expenditures to strengthen the Treasury's position.

Fund Of Interior Department Is Cut

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—A sharply trimmed Interior Department supply bill was reported today to the House by its watchful Appropriations committee.

Carrying out Chairman Byrns' policy of pruning government recommendations were possible, the committee slashed $6,273,000 off the budget estimates and allowed the department $50,431,000 for the coming fiscal year, $18,911,000 below 1931.

The permanent and indefinite appropriations, made automatically by previous enactments, total $13,921,000 as compared with $15,952,000 for this year.

In this bill, the Agriculture Department measure (still under consideration in the House) and the first deficiency bill (now in conference) the appropriations committee has shaved a total of $31,000,000 from budget estimates.

PRISON RIOT IN ENGLAND FAILED TO FREE ANYONE

Wardens, Reinforced By Police, Quelled Unruly Convicts

BULLETIN
London, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Heavy guards, reinforced by police, and troops held in readiness, preserved order today at the famous Dartmoor prison on the moors near Exeter, after a mass attempt of 100 of the 400 convicts to escape.

Twenty convicts, among those more severely hurt in the rioting, were in the prison hospital. The six ringleaders were isolated in their cells while government officials investigated the riot. It was expected the leaders might be flogged or have their sentences increased, but capital punishment cannot be inflicted.

Discontent has been growing in the prison, apparently based on dissatisfaction over the food, just as complaints about the food resulted in the "Dartmoor massacre" more than 100 years ago, in which seven American seamen of the War of 1812 were killed.

London, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Prison rioting which the press declared "out-rivalled the imagination of a Hollywood film producer," an outbreak unprecedented in British prison history, failed to free a single convict.

One hundred long-term inmates of the Dartmoor prison in the loneliest section of the Devon moors attacked their wardens, Sunday, set fire to the Warden's office and main cell block, and were only prevented from gaining control of the prison by truckloads of police from Plymouth.

Damage was estimated at over $50,000.

Some of the convicts were reportedly maddened with liquor which they seized in a raid on the prison canteen.

Fifty "bobbies" from Plymouth arrived at the prison gates just as the convicts, grouped together and armed with sticks, stones, and improvised weapons, were inviting the wardens to "come and get it."

The policemen shed their great coats, drew their truncheons, and with shouts of "Come on, lads," they charged the mob. A few minutes later 70 convicts were unconscious in the prison yard. The police used only their truncheons, as the regular "bobbies" in England does not carry a gun.

An official statement from the Home Office said that 100 of a total of 400 prisoners at Dartmoor participated in the movement. The prison wardens (guards equipped with guns) fired to prevent escapes. No prisoners escaped and none was seriously hurt, the statement said. About 20 were taken to the hospital.

No prisoner has escaped from the prison at Dartmoor since the year 1850.

The statement said that some prison records were burned but that there would be no difficulty in replacing them. "The cause of the trouble is not known. The Home Secretary will arrange an inquiry," the statement concluded.

Earlier officials reports said that two convicts were killed and 95 injured and one escaped.

All male residents of Princetown, near the prison, were enrolled as special constables, given rifles, and

Cicero Theater Is Bombed This Morn

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(UP)—The Annetta theater in Cicero, which had been dispensing with union operators, was wrecked today by a bomb explosion. Damage to the theater and adjoining property was estimated at $20,000 to $25,000.

The bomb had been placed in the lobby of the theatre, at the cashier's window. The theater occupies the corner of a two-story building one-half block long.

Ben Bartelstein, owner, blamed the bombing on dispute with Thomas Maloy, business agent of the Motion Picture Operators' Union. He also related, however, that when he recently cut admission prices from 25 to 15 cents, a stench bomb was thrown among patrons.

Bartelstein said that Maloy balked at the operating staff of the theater being reduced from two to one. As a result, Bartelstein discharged both operators, and ran the projector and sound equipment himself.

Have New Theory In Chinese Axe Murder

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(UP)—The slaying of the Rev. H. Frank Chan, Chinese pastor, today seemed likely to be added to the many Oriental mysteries police have been unable to solve.

Officers had a new theory of the killing, but still were without a clue to the hatchman who killed the minister as he sat writing in the study of his church in the heart of the Chinese quarter.

The unfinished note written in Chinese characters was said by translators to have been composed for some one unable to write. It was addressed "Dear Mother" and told how the writer had been jobless for three months.

Police suggested the man for whom the pastor was writing the note might have become enraged suddenly and killed him.

GOV. ROOSEVELT OUT IN OPEN FOR THAT NOMINATION

Announces Candidacy In Letter To No. Dak.
State Chairman

Washington, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Friends of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York are expected to move quickly in every section of the country, hoping to nail down the Democratic presidential nomination for him long before the national convention meets in June.

The signal for inauguration of activity on a nation-wide scale is Roosevelt's announcement of his candidacy in a letter just sent to F. W. McClean, Secretary of the North Dakota State Central Democratic Committee. Immediate work to realize the Roosevelt hope will be seen all the way from New England to the Pacific coast and from Wisconsin to Texas.

The strategy of the New York Governor is based on expectation that the early candidate gets the nomination. Sometimes this works, as it did for Alfred E. Smith in 1928, and sometimes it doesn't, as in the cases of William G. McAdoo in 1924 and Champ Clark in 1912.

He now has reason to count on approximately a majority of the convention delegates. However, his fate will rest with the remaining voters necessary to obtain a two-thirds majority. Numerous party leaders who oppose him are concentrating on chipping away to prevent this two-thirds, resorting chiefly to setting up a favorite son.

Much Smith Talk.
In addition Roosevelt is threatened by increasing though apparently unauthorized activity for Alfred E. Smith. There is much of scattered talk for Smith and an actual attempt to obtain New Hampshire's eight delegates for him. If Smith permits this rumor to continue Roosevelt will be seriously undermined.

The Governor, therefore, cannot wait to settle the issue at the convention, for if the balloting becomes prolonged he would be in serious danger of having to give way to a compromise choice such as Newton D. Baker of Ohio or John N. Garner of Texas.

Activities for Roosevelt will take two directions. The first will be the direct offensive by attempting to obtain instructed delegates and to carry primary states in which bona fide favorite son candidates do not figure, the second will be indirect by seeking second choice pledges from delegations nominally committed to favorite sons.

Roosevelt's direct strength will lie mostly in the south and west.

Although his friends claim he has nearly 700 votes in prospect as against 770 necessary to nominate, others are inclined to reduce these figures materially, and regard the Democratic race as still very much open.

Road Commissioner Of China Tp. Injured

Highway Commissioner Horace Dysart of China township narrowly escaped being instantly killed this morning about 9 o'clock while engaged in loading gravel in the pit two miles west of Franklin Grove on the Lincoln Highway. The Commissioner and Glen Poutz of Franklin Grove were engaged in loading a truck with gravel, when without warning a large frozen section of gravel became dislodged, rolled down the incline and pinned Mr. Dysart against the truck.

Mr. Poutz succeeded in extricating him and taking him to his home in Franklin Grove. He was later moved to the Dixon public hospital where an X-ray examination disclosed a serious fracture of the right leg just above the knee. The presence of the truck in the pit prevented his being knocked down and probably killed by the heavy clod of gravel.

Farm House Burned: Cat Awakens Woman

(Telegraph Special Service)
Franklin Grove, Jan. 25.—The dwelling on Mrs. Grace Withey farm three miles west of Franklin Grove and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Hazelton, was completely destroyed by fire of unknown origin last night about 9:30. Mrs. Hazelton, who had retired, and who was alone in the house, was awakened by a house cat which had become frightened when the flames spread through the house, which was the first knowledge she had of the fire. The flames spread rapidly to all parts of the house and the structure together with its contents was a total loss, the building being burned to the ground. The loss was reported to have been partially covered by insurance.

DISCOVERY BIG KIDNAPING RING
CLAIMED BY 'SIX'

Investigators Maintain
They Have Proof To Hold Leaders

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Underworld operatives of the Secret Six, the Chicago Association of Commerce crime fighting unit, today claimed discovery of a huge kidnaping syndicate with ransom as its object and torture the means of enforcing its demands.

Chief Investigator Alexander Jamie said last night proof has been obtained against several of its leaders and arrests might be made at any time that would clear up at least five abductions in which victims in the Chicago area within the last year have been terrorized into paying $375,000 ransom.

Other leaders of the Secret Six said the evidence might be used to back Senator Patterson's, Rept., Mo., bill, presented to Congress, which would provide the death penalty for kidnapers.

Jamie declined to reveal anything specific about the ring's activities, but said it operated like a well-organized business concern, one gang specializing in "spotting" wealthy persons for victims, another in the actual kidnaping and the third in collecting the ransom.

Chicago and St. Louis, Mo., have been the scenes of scores of kidnapings in recent months and five members of an alleged kidnaping ring have been seized by the State's Attorney's office and are now awaiting trial.

Eleven Mexicans Face Poison Deaths—

Fresno, Calif., Jan. 25.—(UP)—Authorities began a search throughout southern California today for a party of 11 impoverished Mexicans who had with them a half sack of the poisoned grain that caused the death here of four Mexican children and five adults with almost certain death.

Alexandro Deloa, one of those stricken here, revealed that he and his friend had given the other Mexican party, traveling toward Mexico, part of the grain, which, unknown to them, had been treated with deadly poison to kill rodents.

Unions Vote Today On Road's Proposal

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Labor took a secret vote today on the proposal of the railways to trim wages by 10 per cent.

In secret meetings the 850 general chairman of brotherhoods and unions read the latest pronouncement of the railroad presidents on the wage and unemployment issues.

Some of the smaller labor organizations had already delegates plenipotentiary authority to their representatives on the committee of the "Big Four" of the conductors, the Enginemen and Firemen, the Engineers and Trainmen, was being weighed in group meetings.

The view prevailed about the head quarters of the joint conference that the latest dictum of the railway executives conceded little more than previous statements, but was drafted—as chairman Daniel Willard of the president's committee said—"to meet more nearly the view of labor."

The presidents were in conference today. There was no joint meeting scheduled. Further general assembly awaited the call of the chairman when labor is ready to give its verdict.

Claims Records For U. S. Army Bombers

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Claims of having some of the world's outstanding combat planes were made today for the U. S. Army.

In a review of the 1931 activities, the Chief Engineer, Major C. W. Howard, said the Corps now has an "amazing list of airplanes" in the test stage and under construction which are outstanding in present performance and in possibilities with other engines.

He termed the B-9, a Boeing-built bomber of radical design, the outstanding development for military planes; the YP-24, a low-wing, all-metal Lockheed monoplane, the fastest two-seater airplane. Of the pursuit ship he said "we can, without challenge, state that it has the highest rate of climb and is faster than any single-seater air-cooled type in the world."

NEW $5,000,000 GRACE LUXURY LINER

The first of four launchings planned by the Grace Line for 1932 will take place in February, when the Santa Rosa, architect's drawing shown here, will go down the ways of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company at Kearney, N. J. One of the most important building programs under way in American shipbuilding, the Grace Line contracts will represent an investment of about $19,000,000 at a time when most American shipyards are operating far below capacity.

The Santa Rosa will be followed in order by the Santa Paula, Santa Elena and Santa Louisa, all of which will be operated by the Panama mail service of the Grace Line between New York, Central America and the Pacific Coast. Each ship will be 508 feet long, 70 feet beam and about 18,000 tons displacement. The Santa Rosa will enter the service in the Fall, operating between New York, Havana, Panama, the Canal Zone, Nicaragua, Salvador, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Mexico and California ports. She will be a turbo-electric liner and capable of achieving twenty-three knots, but will cruise at nineteen knots to maintain schedules. Even at this speed she will reduce the travel time of the Panama mail service from two to eight days between various ports. She will carry 225 first-class and seventy third-class passengers.

The new ships will provide several features that are novel in tercoastal and Central American service, including a private bath with every stateroom, special dining room service adaptable to tropical travel, outdoor swimming pools with illuminated depths and artificial beaches and palm trees. There will also be night clubs, gymnasiums, children's playrooms and the most modern devices available for safety at sea. A mechanical arrangement will allow the roof of the dining room, two stories high, to be rolled back, increasing ventilation and permitting passengers to dine beneath the stars when weather is clear.

Three of the ships are under construction at the Kearney yard and the keel of the fourth will be laid soon after the launching of the Santa Rosa.

Young Mother Is Praised For Brave Decision

New York, Jan. 25—(UP)—Letters, telegrams and flowers came from all over the United States today to Mrs. Lillian Moore, 19, commending her decision to risk her baby's life in a "1000-to-1 operation" rather than see it condemned to a life of imbecility.

Meanwhile, four doctors pondered the advisability of opening up the 13-month-old infant's skull fissures, closed unnaturally at birth, to allow for normal brain expansion which will prevent the baby from being a life-long idiot. The doctors' decision on what to do or not do is expected late tomorrow.

The childish mother, slightly bewildered at the sudden turn in her life's affairs that has made her the focal point of nation-wide interest, sat beside her baby's crib all morning crooning French lullabies.

In her hand she held telegrams including one from Otis Nicholas of Little Rock, Ark., a stranger.

"This is the kindest thing that ever happened to me," said the little mother whose husband left her just before the child was born. "Just read it."

The telegram said: "Kind friend, just read in the papers of your sad misfortunes. I beg that you will accept my deepest sympathy and praise of your great courage and womanhood in which you have shown to the world also your love and devotion for your baby. May God give back to you the sweetest jewel that a pure woman could ask."

Chicago, Jan. 25—(UP)—Mrs. Irene Quayle, 21, was kept alive today in an artificial respirator. Her newborn baby was dead, a sacrifice to the mother's life.

Separated from her husband, Mrs. Quayle drank poison. She was taken to a hospital. While antidotes were being administered, the baby was born. The poison had seared the mother's lungs. Her baby, it was found, was similarly affected. Both were near death.

The hospital's one artificial respirator was used to keep Mrs. Quayle alive while the baby was sent to another hospital. The delay was too great. The baby died.

Mrs. Quayle was given a fighting chance to live today. She was not told the baby had died. Instead she was urged to "make an effort to live for your baby."

TWO DIE ON CROSSING
Taylor Springs, Ill., Jan. 25—(UP)—Joseph Lack, 75, Coffeen, and W. L. Clark, 50, Champaign, were instantly killed near here today when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Big Four passenger train. There were no witnesses to the accident. It was believed the men failed to see the approaching train as they drove onto the tracks.

PRISON RIOT IN

posted on roads around the prison. Flood lights were thrown on the main courtyard and on the fronts of cells. Troops were standing in readiness near by.

There were stories of gallantry during the riot. One life-terminer, named O'Donovan, saved the life of Deputy Prison Commissioner G. D. Turney by beating off convicts who threatened to kick Turney to death.

Another convict used a shovel to beat off prisoners attempting to attack a warden in a boiler room.

The Rev. Ernest Scholes, prison chaplain, was attacked by prisoners who threw him to the ground and tore his clothes, searching for prison keys.

During the turmoil some convicts raided the warders' canteen and consumed gallons of wines, whisky and beer.

Trouble began when a convict attacked and injured a warden. On Saturday the prisoners demonstrated loudly at breakfast, claiming that they had no sugar with their porridge.

According to unofficial versions, the prisoners made a mass attack on the warders Sunday while they were at exercise in the prison yard.

Release Of "Honor"
Slayers Is Sought
Honolulu, Jan. 25—(AP)—Hoping to free Mrs. Granville Fortescue and her three naval co-defendants, at least temporarily, of the charges of slaying Joseph Kahahawai, defense attorneys were to argue in the Circuit Court for the dismissal of police court charges against the quartet today.

The plea is based on delay of the County Prosecutor in presenting the case to the grand jury, which considered the facts for two days last week, but adjourned until tomorrow without an indictment.

If the defense wins its plea today it would mean the release from custody at Pearl Harbor Naval base of Mrs. Fortescue and her co-defendants—Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and A. O. Jones and E. J. Lord, enlisted men. The police court warrant charged them with the murder of Kahahawai, suspected assailant of Mrs. Massie.

Woodstock Bankers'

Woodstock, Ill., Jan. 25—(AP)—Trial of George Woodruff and Norman O. Geyer, Chicago and Wekegan bankers, on conspiracy charges associated with the failure of the Wekegan State Bank in June was postponed for two weeks at defense request today.

George T. Buckingham, counsel for the former Chairman of the National Bank of the Republic at Chicago, moved the continuance, pleading that Geyer was busily engaged in rehabilitating the defunct bank and could not appear.

State Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county agreed on condition the defense would be ready Feb. 8.

THE NIGHT HAS A THOUSAND EYES

The night has a thousand eyes,
And the day but one;
Yet the light of the bright world dies
With the dying sun.

The mind has a thousand eyes,
And the heart but one;
Yet the light of a whole life dies
When love is done.

Miss LeFevre On Charming Program

"Folk songs come from the heart of a people," remarked the youthful and demure Miss LeFevre before the Dixon Woman's Club Saturday, and then proceeded to soulfully sing a group of German folk songs which revealed the heart-aches, joys and passions of a nation for generations past.

Both charming and gifted this student artist, native of Germany, presented a highly entertaining program to the members of the Dixon Woman's Club and their guests.

Exceptional poise and a radiant love for her art marked the rendition of each number.

Miss LeFevre was accompanied at the piano by Miss Geneva Golitzner whose sympathetic interpretation pleasantly supplemented the work of the soloist. The same delicate shadings and fine technique were noted in the two piano numbers played by the accompanist.

The first half of the program included Schuman's "Derr Nussbaum," a group of songs by contemporary German composers, and the aria, "Pace, pace into Dio," from the famous opera "La Forza del Destino."

Miss Golitzner's group of piano solos included Grieg's "Carnival."

The second half of the program consisted of charming German folk songs sung in German peasant costume.

The hostesses Mesdames Buchner, Bowers Wingert, Chapman, Van Inwegen, Countryman, Rorick, Morris, Haynes and Miss Newman, served refreshments. Mrs. Wingert and Mrs. Morris presided at the tea table.

Kathryn Witwer Here Tonight

Henry Jackson of Princeton, a gifted young pianist, will accompany her.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF by ALICIA HART

© 1931 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

A face pack will go far toward eliminating blackheads, correcting sallow skin and making the muscles of your face and throat firm.

There are six important steps in applying a facial pack. First, cleanse your skin thoroughly. If you have dry skin, clean your face and neck with a cleansing cream if it's oily, use a liquid cleanser. The second step, naturally, is the use of a good skin tonic. Soak a cotton pad in the preparation and pat your skin until it tingles. This stimulates circulation and makes the muscles firm.

For the third step, use a good nourishing cream. Be sure you choose one which suits your type of skin. There are several dainty fragrant creams which contain no fats or oils and these are best for a normal skin. For a thin face, use a rich oily nourishing cream and massage it into the skin thoroughly. There are special texture creams for dry skins.

Now take the face pack preparation and mix it with enough warm skin tonic to make it spread evenly on the skin. Apply the paste with your finger tips, beginning at the base of your throat and working upward to the hair-line on your forehead. Put a thick coat of it on your chin and around your nose and eyes. A thinner coat will suffice on the cheeks and forehead. Leave it on from 20 minutes to an hour, depending on how sensitive your skin happens to be. The skin will throb and tingle as the preparation dries.

To remove the mask, use a wash cloth or sponge and plenty of lukewarm water. Spread the cloth over your face and throat until all of the "clay" becomes soft, and then carefully wash it off. Pat a facial oil on your face and neck. Be generous with it, for it will stop the "drawing and pulling" feeling caused by the pack.

To close the pores and to refine and firm the skin, soak a cotton pad in an ice astringent and pat it on your throat and face. You are now ready for your powder base and your make-up.

Use a face pack about once every two weeks and in a few months, notice the improvement on your skin.

SUNDAY DINNER 75c

"I am making my debut on the stage of matrimony," smiled Elsie Janis, 42-year-old former actress, when this first picture was taken of her with her new husband, Gilbert Wilson, 26, of Los Angeles. Secretly married on New Year's Eve, they're spending their honeymoon at Tarrytown, N. Y. Famous on the stages of America and Europe, Miss Janis was a popular entertainer for U. S. forces overseas during the World War.

Spring Hats Assume A Flowery Air; They're 'Down On Side and Up In Back'

BY ADELAIDE KERR

Paris—(AP)—Flowers, feathers and streamers deck the new spring hats already shown.

Posies perched on the back, front and sides of chapeaux promise one of the most flowery springtime modes the style world has seen in years. Quills, made of both paper and feathers, and streamers of velvet and silk add novelty to the varied style parade.

"Down on the side, and up in the back," is the slogan which governs the wearing of the new spring chapeaux.

The tilt over one eye has given way to the tilt to the right, while the line at the back is almost invariably turned up or given an upward effect by means of a feather or flower trim.

The new straws for dressy wear are as light as paper. Mother-of-pearl straws and the models made of the new fashionable transparent materials are designed with flat crowns and narrow brims turned down on the front side and up in the back. They are trimmed with narrow velvet crown bands strung with mother-of-pearl buttons or with one tinted carnation perched on the brim.

The crocheted hat is another colorful part of the dressy hat picture. It is woven to pull down on the right-front side and turn up in the back, where it is trimmed with a mass of blooms of matching or contrasting color.

A red silk knit jersey trimmed with red hyacinths, dark blue trimmed with pale blue and black trimmed with crimson are among the outstanding models.

The flower decked dressy hats may be worn with a single strand necklace or a tiny muff made of the same posies as the hat trim.

For street wear the "down on the side, up in the back" design is almost universal. Milans, picots and coarsely woven lacquered straws are often trimmed with quills perched at unexpected rakish angles. Black with jade green trim, dark blue with navy or light blue, and green with white or tangerine are among the outstanding combinations.

enough, for childhood soon forgets. She was really hungry now.

"Where's the bread, Anne?" "Bread!"

"I told you to get some on your way home."

"No, you didn't, mother."

"Don't contradict me. I did look here, Anne, you are getting impatient. Everytime I open my mouth you contradict me. Here I slave and slave and all the thanks I get . . ."

Her mother went on working herself into a rage. "And you are a shiftless and lazy girl," she would up. "You can't ever remember one little thing I ask you to do. Now no bread! Well, you'll just have to eat crusts; it's all you deserve."

Anne again sat down to eat, with two more tears in her eyes. Suddenly the flood came, she rushed from the table and flew upstairs and sobbed on her bed.

"Come on down now and eat your lunch and stop acting up. I've got turkey soup and rice. Come on right away."

Another Meal Missed

But Anne couldn't eat. She barely tasted her soup and even that nauseated her. She went in and tried to practice, then went to school.

At dinner she was herself again. She had stopped after school and gotten some candy, but her appetite was back full force.

"Anne's a cry-baby! Anne's a cry-baby! She wouldn't eat any lunch!" sang Billy.

"Stop!" shouted Anne. "Shame on you. Can't you take a little fun?" said her father sharply.

Billy went on teasing. Anne got mad and said finally, "Oh, shut up!" Then both parents went for her. "Billy was only a baby."

Again nothing tasted right. Every mouthful choked her. She just wanted to get away and be alone.

There were many days like this. Anne got thin and pale. The doctor prescribed a tonic. But druggists can never make up for the folly of some parents in turning mealtime into an inquisition.

Beautiful Church Wedding in Amboy

On Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Immanuel Lutheran church in Amboy a beautiful church wedding was solemnized, with the pastor, the Reverend A. G. Suechting officiating in the presence of about seventy relatives and friends. At this time Miss Lucille Barlow and Stanley Clarke, were married, with the single ring ceremony.

The church was attractively decorated with ferns and palms. It was a dignified and beautiful service.

Before the ceremony Miss Marie Barlow, with violin obligato by Miss Lela Barlow, and with Mrs. A. G. Suechting at the organ, sang sweetly "I Love You Truly." This was followed by the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin by Wagner, and the wedding procession as the bridal party approached the church altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Leon Barlow. She was beautifully gowned in a medium shade of blue flat crepe and carried a bride's bouquet of roses, narcissus and baby's breath. She was attended by her sister, Miss Olive Barlow, who wore a pretty gown of rose flat crepe and a corsage of tea roses.

The bridegroom was attended as best man by Milton Vaupel, the latter leading the bridal procession.

After the service at the church a wedding supper was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Barlow, parents of the bride, the rooms and the tables being beautifully decorated in pink and green with roses, and other cut flowers and ferns, forming the decorations with pink candles.

After the congratulations and wedding supper Mr. and Mrs. Clarke left for LaGrange, where the bridegroom has a new little home, nicely furnished. The many friends of both young people extend to them best wishes for happiness. She is a charming young woman, whose friends regret her departure from Amboy but hope for many visits. Mr. Clarke is associated with the Bell Telephone Co., and is a fine young man.

Amboy Club Enjoyed Mrs. Glatter

The Amboy News this week publishes the following article which tells of Mrs. Glatter's address before the Amboy Woman's Club and also speaks of Miss Clara Armstrong's address and that of Mrs. F. N. Deutsch, president of the Lee County Federated Women's Clubs. The article:

"Art in Your Home" was the subject of an address presented to the Amboy Women's club Monday by Magda Glatter, Hungarian artist of Dixon who gave the club ladies many useful ideas in home decoration.

Harmony was the stressed point of good taste emphasized by the speaker-artist. She stressed the need for harmony in furnishings, architecture, and landscape. She believes that the home-maker should follow desires of individual expression rather than set rules of decoration. She suggested that beautiful pictures, fine old pottery pieces are always in good taste. The speaker's interesting personality, sparkling manner, and sharp wit made the talk especially interesting, according to one of the club members.

Clara Armstrong, art chairman of the 13th district, gave an outline of the federation work; Mrs. L. N. Deutsch, president of Federated Women's Clubs, was also present at the Monday meeting and she addressed the club briefly.

Helen McIntyre presented two piano solos.

Tea was served by Mrs. Robert Nowe, Mrs. John M. McGowan, and Mrs. Ara Morgan.

GEN. DAWES MAKES ANSWER.

When Gen. Charles G. Dawes came home from London a few days ago and it was announced that he was to retire as Ambassador to Great Britain the political writers immediately began to conjecture that he was returning in order to become a candidate against Mr. Hoover for the Republican presidential nomination. Characterizing such a suggestion as utter nonsense, Gen. Dawes gave to the press the following statement:

"I note the discussions of politicians seeking, as usual, to read petty political significance out of my return to Chicago. I cherish for President Hoover the highest admiration and deepest affection. Any intimation to the effect that in any possible way or under any possible contingency he will not have my loyal and entire support is an insult to me.

"My last visit to this country was in July. I came back to find the people risen above partisan politics. They will remain above them. I find both the Republican party and the Democratic party united in a determination to balance the national budget and limit global expenditures.

"I find both parties and all the people standing behind a legislative program of reconstruction, which is a common-sense program. It is based upon an old-fashioned idea that our government should always raise the money to pay its expenditures and not borrow it.

"As for President Hoover, whatever may be temporary political reactions—and they are unimportant in such times—he has made a record in presidential initiative and constructive accomplishment unparalleled in the economic history of this nation or of any other. He has done this without faltering and without discouragement.

"Economically this country generally has started on the upgrade; we have passed the bottom. The American people, with indomitable spirit, have resumed their onward march."

MRS. PINCHOT IN POLITICS.

Mrs. Gifford Pinchot's announcement that she will run for Congress against Representative Louis T. McFadden insures Pennsylvania of at least one contest that will be packed with interest.

By any standard, the wife of Pennsylvania's governor is one of the most interesting women in the country. Furthermore, she is a good campaigner—she ran against McFadden three years ago and came within 2000 votes of retiring him to private life. The race will be well worth watching.

It is quite possible that the majority of her fellow-citizens throughout the country will be pulling for her, too. Representative McFadden's utterly absurd attack on President Hoover in Congress recently was hardly the sort of thing to promote a widespread desire for his—McFadden's—re-election.

OLD INVENTIONS AND NEW.

New inventions and mechanical devices are very often simply old ones brought up to date.

As an example, there are the propellers of the great new dirigible Akron. These propellers are mounted swivel-fashion. Operated with the blades vertical, they drive the ship straight ahead; swung to a horizontal plane, they help the ship move straight up. All an all, they are the very latest thing in dirigible equipment.

However, in "Wings for Men," an entertaining history of aviation written by Frank Wead and produced this fall by the Century Co., it is revealed that the first airship Count Zeppelin ever built had the same sort of arrangement. It didn't work very well, and Zeppelin abandoned it in his later models; but today's device is simply a perfecting of the stunt he tried decades ago. If he could look at the Akron's propellers he might remark—"Oh, yes, I tried that a long time ago, but I couldn't make it work as you can."

The capitalist system will last long enough for me and that all I'm worrying about.—G. B. Shaw.

It is not necessary to sing vocally in order to sing.—Ramon Novarro, Movie Star.

Either Germany shall be allowed to export, and then she can pay, or if exports are prevented the payment of political debts becomes impossible.—Chancellor Bruening of Germany.

Without government guarantee of deposits, we shall simply have to wait until banks quit popping before confidence is restored.—Prof. T. N. Carver, of Harvard.

When the law makes a foolish pawn of American womanhood, then the army, navy or any decent man—well, use your imagination.—Admiral H. H. Wiley, Retired.

The list of American presidents presents an almost unbroken array of British names. English kings, on the other hand, are often foreigners.—Havelock Ellis, Writer.

The lantern, with its real bright light was pleasant to each Tinymite. The flame sent out a bit of warmth that everyone enjoyed. Said Duncy, "This is fine to use when we're wish to take a snooze. We'll cuddle down in front of it where we won't be annoyed."

"A good idea," Scouty cried. "All of you snuggle, side by side and go to sleep. I'll stay awake. We need a guard, you see. If Mr. Giant should return to find we've made his lantern burn, I'm sure it would provoke him. He'd be made as mad as can be."

"I have a better plan," said one. "I think it would be lots of fun to set a big alarm clock. Then we all can sleep at once. Twill ring when we set it for and wake us with its ringing roar. You Tinymites must admit I think of very clever stunts."

They found the clock, a great big thing. Then Windy set it so 'twould ring in just an hour. And then the bunch slipped off to slumberland. The ticking sound fit in real slick. It lulled them off to sleep right quick. Poor Times! They all were so tired they simply couldn't stand.

Each one had dreams of thrills galore. Perhaps that is what made them snore. The lamp began to flicker and then went out, with a puff. 'Twas 'cause the thing ran out of oil, but, even so, it didn't spoil a thing, because the room was plenty warm enough.

And then the big alarm rang loud. It startled all the Tiny crowd. "I'll shut it off," cried Coppy. Then he took a graceful hop and landed right on top of the bell. But, shucks, he didn't do so well. Said he, "We'll have to wait till it runs down. Then it will stop."

HEALTHY CHILDREN

How to Provide Proper Food and Care at a Minimum Cost

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of six daily articles on the proper care and nutrition of children, published by this newspaper in cooperation with the American Child Health Association. The present depression and unemployment has made this a grave problem in many families where a dollar must go further now than ever before.)

By SISTER MARY
(Written especially for NEA Service and for the Evening Telegraph)

In order for children to grow without incurring any of their tissues through deprivation of proper nourishment, nutrition experts have worked out the minimum amount of food that must be supplied.

Food has been divided into five groups, each group essential to the welfare and health of the children. Milk comes first, from one pint to one quart to drink and use in cooking.

In the second group are placed bread, cereals, rice, macaroni, spaghetti, noodles and the like; one or more of these foods to be used at every meal with whole grain breads and cereals predominating.

Group three takes care of the vegetables and fruit and recommends generous helpings of two or three vegetables, including lettuce, spinach, cabbage, carrots and other leafy vegetables. Tomatoes are also classed with the fruit and fresh or canned may be used in place of oranges. Some other fruit such as bananas or apples should also be provided.

Eggs, meat, fish, cheese, dried beans, peas and lentils make up the larger fourth group. At least one food from this group should be chosen daily with preferably an egg at least three or four times during the week and meat never more than once a day.

The facts come in group five with some cream, butter, oleomargarine, nut butter, bacon, suet or other fat and a little cod liver oil daily suggested. On such a diet a child can grow and protect his health.

From these groups it is comparatively easy to plan luncheon menus. Such vegetables as potatoes, carrots, cabbage, onions and spinach, can be cooked in many ways that are appetizing and nourishing. Elbow turnips and dried peas and beans add variety. Cabbage, carrots and onions are all good served raw and can be used alone or in combination with the white variety and its color often appeals to children.

Vegetable chowders and cream soups offer the maximum amount of food value for the money spent. It is a good idea to eat some raw fruit or raw vegetables every day. When a soft food or liquid such as a cream soup forms the main

SISTER MARY'S LUNCHEON MENUS

Suggested menu:
Cream of tomato soup, whole wheat toast sticks, carrot, straw, jelly, prunes with custard sauce. Milk is not needed as a drink for children in this menu since both the soup and custard sauce contain good amounts of it.

The next luncheon menu suggests a vegetable chowder: Vegetable chowder, crisp fresh, crackers, shredded raw red cabbage and apple salad, bread, rice pudding, milk for children.

Since less milk is used for cooking in this menu it is imperative that a child shall have a cup of milk to drink.

When the noon day meal is the heartiest meal of the day such dishes as macaroni and cheese, meat stews and baked beans may be introduced.

Tomorrow: Dinner Menus.

luncheon dish the raw food is particularly valuable on account of its crisp texture.

Day-old bread is better for children than fresh bread and costs dried fruit and milk, makes acceptable. Stale bread, combined with able puddings.

If milk, bread, one cooked vegetable and one raw vegetable, some fruit other than that used for breakfast and a dessert made of rice, or some other cereal, comprise the luncheon the child is sure to receive his full quota of the "protective" foods and a balanced diet.

A vegetable should be cooked as quickly as possible. When wanted for a soup the amount of water used for cooking is less important since the liquid can be utilized in the soup. But when the vegetable is to be served without its juices, the smallest amount of water possible to prevent burning should be used.

The noon meal is an excellent time to serve eggs in some form. In main dishes such as scalloped potatoes and eggs, in desserts and in custard sauce for a plain dessert eggs can be used to good advantage.

In the accompanying luncheon menu a well-balanced diet is provided.

CLYDE F. KETNER, MANAGING EDITOR OF THE SHAMOKIN (PA.) DISPATCH SAYS:

"Fear and hysteria followed an era of luxury throughout the trying years that have followed the World War and brought us to the present with an attitude of fear and trembling for the future."

"The answer lies in judicious spending. Everywhere the attitude of cowardly hoarding is being abandoned for the better system advocated by financiers of making wise expenditures for things that will last."

"Soon we will emerge from the nightmare of depression and start on the broad, bright highway of moderate and lasting good times. There have been other depressions. In the past one hundred and thirty years we have had thirteen of these lapses of prosperity. We have passed through seven of the ten years in the present cycle, and during the next three should forge ahead."

"The temporary collapse of the world's business structure was caused by a combination of circumstances, and only through courageous and well-considered action can we bring about a return of prosperity. There are good years ahead!"

KUHLMANN'S SPEECHES

On Jan. 25, 1918, and also on the following day, Dr. von Kuhlmann, German foreign minister speaking, before the main committee of the Reichstag, justified the policy pursued by the German representatives at Brest-Litovsk and denounced the Bolsheviks as the ruling force.

He said: "Herr Trotsky twice declared in open discussion that our government has no other basis than force. The Bolsheviks maintain themselves by brutal force; their arguments are cannon and machine guns. The Bolsheviks preach beautifully, but practice otherwise."

"The statements of the Bolsheviks show that these gentlemen are indulging in another policy than that of concluding an open and honorable peace with the 'bourgeois governments' of the Central Powers, which are hated like poison."

CHICAGO COLLEGE GIRL WINNER ICE CONTEST ON FOUL

Helen Bina, 19, Became National Skating Champ Sunday

Oconomowoc, Wis. Jan. 25 (UP)—Helen Bina, a 19-year-old Chicago college girl, today was queen of the women skaters of the United States.

She won the title on a foul in a spectacular climax to the National speed skating championships held on Monterey Mill pond over the week-end. A crowd of about 8400 saw Sunday's races.

After tying with Catherine (Kit) Klein, 21-year-old Buffalo, New York stenographer, each with 50 points in the three women's events, they agreed to skate off the tie in a special 1,000-meter race at the end of the program.

Miss Klein led through most of the race and slid face forward over the finish line first after both girls had crashed on the hard-frozen surface within a few feet of the tape.

Officials, however, ruled the slim Buffalo girl had interfered with Miss Bina by edging her toward the outside and had thrown her arm in front of her opponent as it seemed the Chicagoan was about to pass her. This officials said, caused the spill. Miss Bina was carried off the course half unconscious.

"I didn't foul her," protested Miss Klein in tears when told she had been disqualified. "I don't mind losing the championship but I didn't foul her."

Many spectators disagreed with the ruling made by Referee Edward Mahike, who operates the Chicago Stadium public skating concession, and left the scene believing Miss Klein entitled to the title. The other officials concurred with the referee's ruling.

Victory in the 1500 meter race enabled Miss Klein to tie for the title. She started the final day with 20 points, trailing Miss Bina, who set a new world's record in winning the 1,000 meter Saturday, by 30 points.

Both Miss Bina and Miss Klein won places on the women's United States Olympic team. The others to win places on the team are Dorothy Frane, St. Paul, Elizabeth Du Bois, Chicago and Elsie Muller, Hastings, N. Y. The sixth member to be selected later will be either Crystal Bruce, Milwaukee or Loreta Neitzel, Detroit, dethroned national champion who failed to score a point.

Men's Contests

The men's national championship was won by Jim Webster, young St. Paul clerk and former high school football star, with 80 points. He won the three-quarters mile in one minute, 46 2-5 seconds, placed third in the 440-yard event and third in the 5-mile race to pile 50 points on the final day and pass up five rivals who led him, Webster won the 1-mile on Saturday for his other 30 points.

There is a possibility that Webster may be a belated member of the U. S. Olympic team. He did not participate in the tryouts at Lake Placid, N. Y., but amateur skating officials today opened a campaign to have the new national champion named to the Olympic team.

Art Peters finished second in the men's division with 70 points, and Mel Johnson, Detroit, Harry Haskey of Chicago and Eddie Stundl, Chicago, tied for third place, each with 60 points.

Wilbur Marks, Chicago, "successfully" defended his title in the boys' intermediate division, scoring 120 points and winning four out of five events. In the other event he fell.

DENVER MAN IS RELEASED SUNDAY BY HIS KIDNAPERS

Hoax Note, Published In Paper, Led Gang To Mutual Suspicion

Denver, Colo., Jan. 25 —(UP)—Benjamin P. Bower lived today under threat of death.

The wealthy 42-year-old bakery official, who was abducted from his home last Tuesday night and held blindfolded five days for $50,000 ransom, was free early Sunday, but the kidnapers said they "would see him in a few days" to collect the ransom.

They told Bower they would kill him unless he paid.

Police guarded him closely. The Rocky Mountain News, in a copyrighted story, said a note purportedly from Bower while in the kidnapers' power saying he would be killed at 1 P. M. Saturday unless his wife paid the ransom "was a hoax designed to save the life of Bower."

The story said the note was written in the News' office by Manager of Safety Carl S. Milliken and Chief of Police Albert T. Clark while Bower's life hung in the balance.

The note stimulated a genuine note from the kidnapers and was designed to make the kidnapers believe that Mrs. Bower and the authorities had not received the genuine note but rather a note from a gang of extortionists trying to muscle in on the case to collect the ransom.

Italians Suspected

The News' copyright portrayed Italians, who frequently have figured in Colorado gangster and criminal annals, as the master minds behind the abduction.

The News named Joseph R. Roma, Denver automobile dealer once credited with being a deadly enemy of Pete Carlinio, slain gang chief, and an Italian named Smallbone as the men with whom Mrs. Bower negotiated before her husband was released.

Bower was so closely guarded that his story of his 100 hours of terror in the kidnapers' hands was unveiled further than sketchy details.

He said he believed he was held in a mountain cabin near Denver and Sunday afternoon he assisted police in an attempt to find the place.

Eyes Kept Taped

The News, however, said Bower was held "not more than ten minutes" automobile ride from West Florida Avenue and South Sheridan Boulevard, in southwest Denver.

Bower, his wife, his attorney, J. A. Harsh and Chief Clark denied any ransom was paid in the negotiations which Mrs. Bower had with the Italians.

Bowers said he was well-treated while in captivity and was released only because the kidnapers were misled by the hoax note.

The kidnapers never untaped his eyes in the entire five days except for the brief time in which he wrote a note to his wife, the contents of which the police refused to reveal, and which they simulated in the hoax note.

DIVORCEE SHOT BY LOVER WHO THEN SUICIDES

Illicit Love Of Michigan Couple Ends In Tragedies

Detroit, Jan. 25—(AP)—Murder and suicide have closed the book for Mrs. Josephine Hudson, 24, and David Schaefer, 35.

The body of Mrs. Hudson, divorcee, a bullet in the neck, was found yesterday in an automobile in suburban Dearborn.

Later when officers went to question David Schaefer who had deserted his family for Mrs. Hudson, he killed himself.

Mrs. Hudson's description was broadcast by radio and her picture published by a newspaper, as police sought to identify her. Ray Hudson, from whom she was divorced, who with their two children lives near Ann Arbor, Mich., saw the picture and came forward.

Sheriff Andres of Washtenaw county also recognized the photograph. He sent three deputies to the farm home where Schaefer's wife and their six children live.

While they were talking to Mrs. Schaefer, the fugitive killed himself. Mrs. Schaefer said her husband came home during the morning, said he was "all through" with Mrs. Hudson and played with the children he had not seen for six months.

The Hudsons and the Schaefers lived on neighboring farms. Last July Schaefer left his family. A week later, Mrs. Hudson disappeared. They lived in Chicago for a time as "Mr. and Mrs. George Wills," then returned to Michigan.

Seeds of World War Were Sown as Expanding Germany Reached for Foreign Trade, but Wilhelm's Militarism Touched Off Great Conflict

By MILTON BRONNER

Europe, wondering how the young Emperor Wilhelm II would act after his accession to Germany's throne in 1888 was not long finding out.

In a manner that chilled the spines of the rest of the nations on the continent and the nearby island of England, he spoke grandiloquently of "mailed fists," and "Germany's mission in the world."

In his speeches, he petted the dove of peace — but at the same time he paraded his shining armor.

Even his own countrymen became uneasy. But, presently, their fears were away. Wilhelm was young; he seemed disposed to confine himself to talk.

He was, so it began to be felt, merely making up for his sense of inferiority that had been his since youth because of that terribly shriveled arm. At last, he was the first man in Germany, commander-in-chief of a huge army; now he would avenge his own self-esteem for the humiliation he had felt when as a youth at cavalry school, he had repeatedly fallen from his horse because he had only one good arm.

Gradually, Europe settled back too the comfortable belief that it all was merely talk. Little did it dream that 1914 was to bring disillusion.

In the early nineties, Wilhelm turned his attention to the German fleet—"My fleet," he called it, just as he said "My army."

Until then Germany had a very modest navy. Britannia, then as before, ruled the waves. Wilhelm, however, conceived the idea of making Germany one of the foremost of the world powers; perhaps, he thought that Germany would never be on an equal footing with England until it had a great navy had something to do with this. At all events, he launched a huge naval building program.

Year by year the fleet grew. It passed the fleets of various other nations. Finally, it was second only to England's. Still, Wilhelm was not satisfied. He spoke of his fleet with the pride he had formerly reserved for his army. Both must be the greatest on earth.

Meanwhile, the German industry and commerce had expanded amazingly. Science in industry, though born abroad, flocked to Germany because it found a warm welcome there. England, like most other nations of that time, kept its scientists in the school rooms; Germany put them in her growing factories. It is a fact that Germany's great chemical industry, incomparable until destroyed by the war defeat, was the product of an English scientist, who had been unappreciated at home.

The years from 1890 saw a growth of prosperity unparalleled in any other country except the United States. Wilhelm was not solely responsible, of course, but he must be credited with fostering this growth.

"Made in Germany," became a stamp on goods sold in every market in the world.

Political and economic reforms came, too. It is worthy of note that Wilhelm fostered liberal legislation such as workmen's compensation laws, humane factory regulation, old age pensions, mothers' pensions and the like.

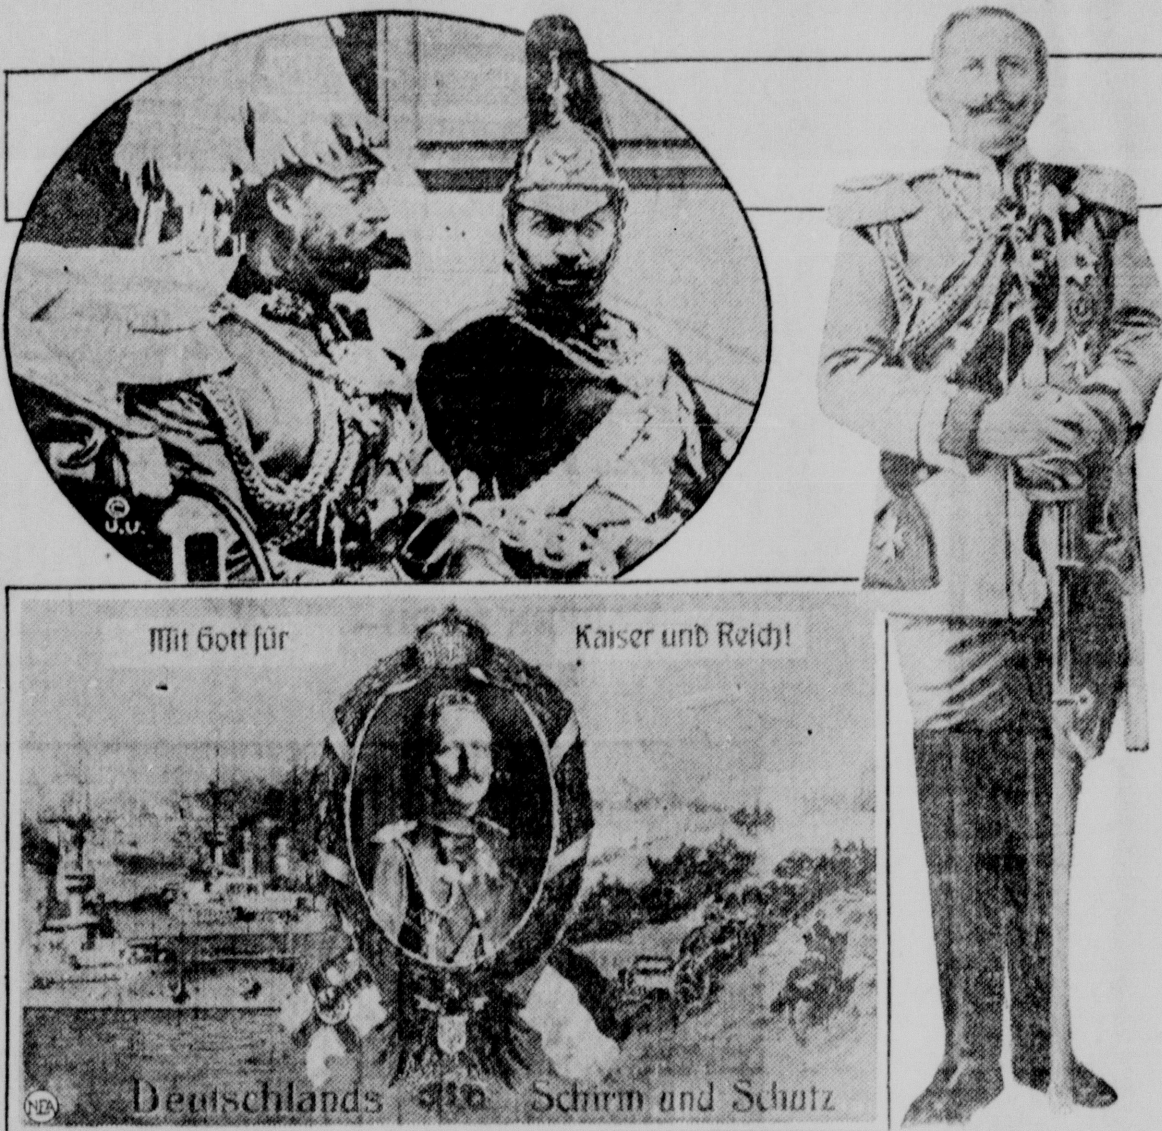

But, in this connection, it is worth explaining that the Socialist tide of Marxism was gaining in Germany at that time—the working classes were growing in power, recognizing their rights and demanding them.

Canny Wilhelm, in granting these things, was not generous. He was merely smart.

Still, he held his royal power with a grip of iron. He was Europe's connecting link, at the turn of the century, with the ancient days of the Grand Monarchy when the king was supreme, because the custom of centuries made him so. The German public evidently mistaking canny shrewdness, for open-handed liberalism, was almost idolatrous — gladly it yielded to the bigger demands for "My fleet" and "My army."

In the flush of success and prosperity, intense nationalism spread like a fever throughout the length and breadth of Germany. The Germans were a race apart, destined for a place in the sun. A superior people. Germans were born to lead.

Teachers drilled it at the children in the schools, ministers flung it from their pulpits, college professors digressed in the midst of weary lectures to dilate, in glowing terms, on the God-given future of

THE GOLDEN DAYS OF AN EMPEROR—In the royal carriage above, Kaiser Wilhelm (right) is shown with his cousin, King George of England, en route to the wedding of the former's daughter. the Fatherland and the superiority of its people.

Germans listened and believed. But the commercial expansion carried the seeds of danger. A trade war can lead to an actual war.

Plans for a colonial empire to absorb the surplus of Germany's factories accompanied the industrial boom. England looked fearfully at the threat of mercantile competition; neighboring France looked uneasily at the plans for the growing colonial empire.

Germany's first venture abroad came in the seizure of Kia-Chau in China in 1897. Then in succession, came other colonial efforts: in the East Indies, in the Pacific archipelago, in South Africa.

Wary, but lacking a definite reason for intervening, France and England watched.

Wilhelm meanwhile, professed to be a lover of peace, but history questions that.

In 1906 came the famous "Tangier incident." Germany wanted an "open door" in northwest Africa to clear the road toward her southern colonies; but France was bent on controlling northwest Africa alone.

So Wilhelm, on his yacht, steamed into Tangier and told the sultan Germany would back him against the French. France, not ready for war, backed down and trouble was averted.

Seeking alliances for the day when Germany should go to war, Wilhelm met the Czar of Russia on his yacht off Riga and concocted a Russo-German alliance. It came to naught, however, when the Czar's advisers refused to agree to it.

Then came the alliance with Austria — after which little Austria seized Bosnia and Herzegovina. Russia protested. Wilhelm backed Austria, Russia backed down.

In 1911, Wilhelm tried to stop France's spread in Morocco, but on England's flat warning that it would stand by France in the event of trouble, Germany backed down. But the French made certain concessions and his face was saved.

Soon, Wilhelm was busy in Turkey and an agreement was made with the sultan for German officers to train the Turkish army. The alliance was to protect his Berlin-to-Bagdad railway.

He entered Jerusalem in state — through a hole especially made in the city walls so he could ride in instead of having to walk in — and made many more speeches about shining armor and the divine right of kings.

The seeds of war had been planted in Europe and nursed throughout the years. Soon they were to flower.

They did. At Sarajevo in the summer of 1914. The shot that killed the Archduke Francis Ferdinand ultimately echoed around the world.

Austria threatened Serbia. Russia came to Serbia's aid. With terrifying swiftness, soon Germany, France and England were at each other's throats.

Racing swiftly across the horizon of Europe came the greatest cataclysm in the world's history. And riding at the head of the Four Horsemen, to whom war was sweet and human suffering inconsequence, was a man with a shriveled arm!

NEXT: The Kaiser in the World War and in the days that followed. . . . The crash, the flight to Holland as a beaten army quit the field and revolution at home. . . . A childish old man, playing in his final days with the toys of war and empire.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

(By the United Press)

Washington, Jan. 25 — This man, Dawes, whose job is to breathe life into the new $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is a demonstrated master at such things.

He is the only living man, for instance, who is known to have shaken a broom in the faces of a President and his assembled Cabinet. It was his way of dramatizing such a tedious, unspectacular task as budget reduction. Dawes had just been made Director of the Budget by the late President Harding. He induced the President, the Cabinet, all the bureau chiefs to attend a mass meeting—in reality an economy pep meeting. It was a torrid June day. Harding was in a palm beach suit. Dawes wore a two inch choking collar and a loose gray suit, the sleeves of which hung down half-way over his hands. The assembled government bureau chiefs, little crows of their corners in the great government departments were cynical about this shouting, resticulating figure who proposed to make them cut down their expenses.

Dawes, to show them that all officials looked alike to him, turned on then Secretary of State Hughes, austere, thinking of high international problems and chided him for failing to send in the name of the State Department budget officer.

I hope the Secretary will do it tomorrow," Dawes said. He chided Secretary Mellon for like negligence. He warmed up on economy, swinging his arms around his head, shouting shrilly, stalking up and down the stage like Billy Sunday.

Then he seized a broom which he had brought into the room with him. He shook it at Harding and the Cabinet, demanding to know why one department paid twice as much for that broom as another department. Some of the Cabinet members laughed. Others looked startled. Harding smiled.

Dawes had just made his national reputation a few months before. It was not for his able management of supplies for the A. E. F. It was not for any profound acts of statesmanship. He made his reputation by swearing. He was hauled before a Republican congressional investigating committee and questioned about his handling of A. E. F. supplies.

"Hell and Maria!" he shouted, shocking a row of elderly lady spectators. "We were winning a war. We weren't keeping books." That studied hard boiled performance laughed the war post-mortem into futility and made Dawes. Thereafter his swearing, his curious under-slung p.p.e. became national and international legend.

That pipe was part of his personality. When he went to London as Ambassador he smoked it at formal dinners. He never steps out in public without it. He would as soon have his picture taken without his pants as without it.

Dawes is the opposite of the conventional diplomatic type. He is frank, blunt, scorns convention, and he won't wear spats. When he took over the embassy in London he started serving lemonade instead of wine. He entertained his guests with American moves and American comedians instead of with chamber music or tepid recitals. His description of diplomatic life — "it's easy on the head but hell on the feet."

He used to play the violin. One of

DIET FOR CONSTIPATION

Anyone suffering from chronic constipation, which, by medical examination has been established as being due to no other cause but improper function of the bowels, should try to remedy the condition through diet, exercise and regularity.

Of these three factors, diet and regularity are the most important. Cathartics are not to be used except on physician's prescription. The point is to train the body to do its work without artificial assistance.

From a physiologic viewpoint, the most logical time for evacuating the bowel is following breakfast.

One should attempt to train the body system to evacuate its waste in the morning.

Diet plays an important part in overcoming constipation, but almost as important as diet are proper eating habits.

The digestive system functions best under an orderly regime. It is essential, therefore, that one should eat at regularly appointed times, and without haste.

Certain foods favor good elimination. These are, recommended for use in constipation.

It should be borne in mind, however, that each of us is liable to dietetic peculiarities and that these recommended foods may be agreeable to some and cause distress in others.

Fruits, bulky vegetables and coarse cereals impart bulk to one's diet and act as a provoking stimulant to the gastro-intestinal tract. Among these food items we list asparagus, string beans, beets, Brussels sprouts, raw and cooked cabbage, cauliflower, carrots, green corn, lettuce, peas, parsnips, spinach, squash, tomatoes and turnips.

Virtually all of the common fruits, fresh or dried, are desirable elements in a diet calculated to correct constipation.

Water and fluids should be taken in sufficient quantities each day. It is estimated that six to eight glasses of fluids is the average desirable quantity.

Tomorrow—Discipline.

ONLY TWO GAMES ON WEEK'S BIG TEN SCHEDULE

Northwestern Still Lead- ing: Nosed Out Ohio Saturday

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Michigan travels to Ohio State Thursday night for one of the two Big Ten basketball games this week. Mid-term examinations have side-tracked the athletes temporarily, the only other game this week bringing together Chicago and Minnesota.

Ohio and Michigan will both be fighting to remain in the title race. Ohio, nosed out by Northwestern, 25 to 24, Saturday, is tied for second place with Minnesota. Michigan lost to Minnesota 30 to 26 and another defeat probably would eliminate the Wolverines as title prospects.

Northwestern pulled through the first half of its season without a defeat, winning six games, three by a one-point margin. The Wildcats have yet to face Purdue in two games and must face two of their one point victims, Ohio and Michigan, on the latter's floors.

The standings:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Northwestern	6	0	1.000
Ohio State	3	1	.750
Minnesota	3	1	.750
Purdue	2	1	.667
Illinois	3	2	.600
Michigan	3	2	.600
Indiana	1	4	.200
Wisconsin	1	4	.200
Chicago	0	4	.000
Iowa	0	4	.000

Reiff Best Scorer
With activity marking time during the mid-year examinations, Joe Reiff still leads the Big Ten individual point scoring race with 56 points in six games, defending honors he won last year with the Northwestern championship team.

Trailing Reiff comes Moffitt of Iowa with 45 points but a better average since he has played but four games. Daniels, Michigan, holds third place with 40 points. Bennett, Illinois, scored 11 points Saturday to take fifth place, one point behind Bobby Poser of Wisconsin.

San Francisco, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Pounding out a 26 to 14 victory in the Knights of Columbus charity football game yesterday, Ernie Nevers, former All-American, broke his left wrist in the last play.

Nevers' win was over Frank Cardo's all-stars.

Behind a strong line Nevers scored every point for his team, which battered the Cardo line for four touchdowns.

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 25.—(AP)—The task of finding a successor to Eurt Ingwersen as head football coach will probably extend another ten days. University of Iowa officials estimated today.

Four of six men under consideration are yet to be interviewed, with a final choice early in February.

broke the national three-mile record for 2135 cubic inch motorcycles with 2:9.10. The old mark was 3:12.60 made by Joe Petrol at Manitowoc, Wis., July 14.

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 25.—(AP)—A tall young professional from Detroit, Ralph Guidahl, today held the Arizona open golf championship because of his disregard for par.

After an opening round of 67, Guidahl played the final yesterday in 68, three under par.

Guidahl's total was 285. He collected $800.

Joe Perelli of Chicago won $400 as second place prize with 290.

Trailing Perelli by one stroke was Harry Cooper, Chicago.

Kansas City, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Oklahoma rules the Big Six basketball race as the campaign slows for college examinations.

The Sooners and Missouri Tigers descended together in percentage loss Friday night, but Oklahoma won a conference contest from Nebraska 37 to 24 Saturday.

The previous night, Oklahoma suffered its first loss this season to Kansas State 24 to 31, and Missouri State by 13 to 18.

Both Iowa State and Kansas State advanced to a tie with Kansas for third place by winning two conference games each, their first victories last week. Iowa State triumphed over Kansas, 37 to 29, and Kansas State conquered Nebraska, 32 to 20.

Canton, S. D., Jan. 25.—(AP)—A new local ski jumping mark of 192 feet was held today by Sverre Fredheim of the Norwegian-American Ski Club, Minneapolis.

He made the leap at the annual tournament of the Sioux Valley Club yesterday. The old mark, 183 feet, was broken seven times yesterday.

Roy Mikkelson, Chicago, of the Olympic team, jumped 190 feet, while Peder Falstad, Sioux Valley, also on the team, made 186 feet. Fredheim is not on the team.

Caspar Oimen, Sioux Valley, national champion and captain of the Olympic quartet, made one jump of 148 feet. Due to an injury, he did not exert himself.

Paris, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight, is a 2 to 1 favorite to defeat the French giant Moise Bouquillon, in their scheduled 10-round bout at the new Sports Palace here tonight.

Sports writers almost unanimously predict that Carnera will knock out the Frenchman.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Vic Fraser, Chicago White Sox right-hand pitcher, signed his 1932 contract today, bringing the total number of Sox signed to eight. Fraser was given a raise in salary. The other Sox signed are Lyons, Thomas, Blue, Cissell, Tate, Jones and Gregory, a rookie pitcher from Atlanta.

St. Louis, Jan. 25.—(UP)—Charles F. (Chile) Walsh, former Notre Dame star end, has accepted a three year contract to coach the St. Louis University football team.

Walsh came to St. Louis U. as assistant coach under Hunk Anderson in 1928, and became head coach last year, when Anderson became the Notre Dame mentor. The Billikens under Walsh last fall had one of their best seasons, winning eight and losing two games.

admission. London is invincible.

Yet—and this is what's got me worrying at the present time—the publicity blurs on tonight's show insist that Stein stands an elegant chance of defeating London thus becoming the first Jewish heavyweight champion in history. And, I might add, one of the few champions who couldn't wrestle a lick.

For Sammy, despite his size, his youth, his strength and his good looks, doesn't even know the A. B. C's of the business. He's really a professional football player by trade and all he knows to do in the ring is to make flying tackles.

Obviously, a flying tackle is not going to be worth much against a man like London—one who is smart as a fox and fast as a whipper. I'd like to see any football player, in a space as big as a ring, make a flying tackle of either a whipper or a fox. It just couldn't be done. For a flying tackle at best, is an awkward thing. To be effective the tackle must be started several yards distance from one's opponent. And certainly anybody as fast as a whipper could side-step during the time the flying tackler is making his non-stop flight across the ring.

Moreover a man, to make a flying tackle, must get set, lower his head, hunch his shoulders, take a deep breath, and perhaps say a prayer. During these preparations a smart as a fox guy like London would realize what was coming and prepare.

So you see, Stein will get in the ring with London with two strikes against him. Even if he happens to connect with one of his plunges, he still has London's bulldog perseverance, bull strength and hippo stamina to overcome. And that sounds like a pretty tremendous job.

Still, the wrestling mat is a place of wonders, and London has been a champion a long while now. It may be his time to step aside and make room for new blood and a new rollover. But I doubt it. Jim has defended his title so many times now (23,488, at the last count) that he will probably apply his finishing "unconscious" grip or airplane spin, out of habit. And if he does, you may rest assured Sammy won't know what in the world to do about it.

By HENRY McEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Jan. 25.—(UP)—The art of wrestling is going to be the death of me yet. What I mean is there are so many angles to the racket which I, as a sports writer, feel it my duty to try and figure out, that one of these days I am going to pass out from sheer mental fatigue.

The latest of the mat game's puzzles cropped out in connection with the Jim London-Sammy Stein world championship match in Madison Square Garden tonight.

I have read no less than a hundred times within the past year that Champion London is agile as a cat, fast as a whipper, smart as a fox, strong as a bull, preserving as a bulldog and hardy as a hippo.

Now if the champion is all this good and he must be for his press advisers say he is—how in the world is anybody going to beat him. They won't let you carry revolvers in the ring, you know. Nor do they allow daggers, depth bombs, or buzz saws.

So you see, by the promoters own

Baseball Gossip

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Max Carey, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, can suit himself. He can look at the 1930 National League batting averages and laugh; or he can glance at the 1931 figures and have a good cry.

With the purchase of Lewis Robert (Hack) Wilson from the St. Louis, Babe Herman, Frank O'Doul and Johnny Frederick—which hit for a collective 366 in 1930 and then fell off last year to a meagre 297.

Some part of that tremendous drop can be blamed on the deadend National League ball and to the new sacrifice rule but a greater portion was due to bad slumps on the part of all four members of the quartet.

Herman, who amassed a fat 393 average in 1930 dropped to 313 last season; O'Doul, 349, 383 to 336; Wilson from 356 to 261, and Frederick from 334 to 270.

The more optimistic of Brooklyn fans will be inclined to believe the 1930 averages more truly represent the collective batting power of this "big four" than do those for 1931.

And perhaps with considerable justification for Wilson's 361 average was due as much to his inability to adapt himself to Rogers Hornsby's regime at Chicago as to anything else. He has a lifetime major league batting average well over the 300 mark. So has Frederick and if the Dodgers decide to keep him he may be an important factor in their drive toward the pennant.

Herman, a natural hitter, figures to hit better than 313 and O'Doul, but for a terrific slump in the first two months of the season, might well have figured in the annual batting award. Over the closing months of the season he was hitting as well, if not better, than anyone in the circuit.

The Dodgers gave up a young outfielder, Robert Parham, and a bundle of cash to get Wilson from the Cardinals. Parham was a hard hitter with Hartford of the Eastern League last season.

Here's how the Dodgers' new "big four" hit in 1930 and 1931:

will probably apply his finishing "unconscious" grip or airplane spin out of habit. And if he does, you may rest assured Sammy won't know what in the world to do about it.

WIDOW LOST SUT

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 23.—(UP)—Mrs. Emma Nevada Clark was denied $10,000 damages in Branch court today in her suit against Detective Charles Esken and Fred H. Prin, who shot and killed her husband when he resisted arrest.

The detectives shot Frank W. Clark, June 2, 1929, after he had quarreled with a neighbor and armed himself with a shotgun. The defense claimed he had been drinking and pointed a gun at the officers when they answered a call to arrest him.

Here's an indoor "track event" new to college athletics. And though he won't get a letter for it, William Edwin Chapman of Fort Wayne, Ind., shown here as he walked to nowhere on an electrically driven treadmill, is helping Harvard University scientists to understand what happens to a human being who works until exhaustion overcomes him. It now has been discovered that the limit expansion of heart muscles, not muscular fatigue causes collapse. HERO OF WORLD'S SERIES ANXIOUS FOR SPRING WORK

"Pepper" Martin Expected To Become Great- er Diamond Star

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Out where the west begins John Leonard (Pepper) Martin, is tramping the game field with his dogs and guns, and wonders if they will love him in April as they did in October.

Impatient now for the training barrier to lift is the gallant figure of the hawk-faced, black haired kid with the rolling walk of a cowpuncher and the twang of the southwest in his speech. His 1932 contract, calling for an increase, is signed.

In "Pepper's" athletic life there have been only three real loves—baseball, football and hunting. He would rather tote a gun than a baseball bat. But it was the power of his bat that earned him the lieure to hunt this year as he never has been free to do before.

After collecting $15,000 for post-season activities, including a stretch of vaudeville, "Pepper" put his affairs in order. He paid off the mortgage on his mother's home, bought a house for his wife and his youngster, hired a secretary to take care of hundreds and hundreds of fan letters, and then took to the woods.

Two Companions
He went after deer in the southwest, then quail and ducks closer to home. In his armory are guns of all kinds. But only two bird dogs, Jack and Joe, hold his affections as hunting companions.

When the spring rolls around the colorful kid will put away the firearms and step out to answer those who wonder if his world series uprisings was just a flash in the pan.

His baseball career never has been easy. He had to reverse Horace Greeley's advice and come east from Temple, Okla., to Crystal Springs, Miss., to get a start in the "tomato" league. He was m'cast in a half dozen positions until he hit his first major league post, after hobnobbing his way to the Card's training camp.

His salary was $4,500 a year when he turned a $10,000,000 world series

Can Trace Speed

"Pepper's" ball playing ability—and the experts will bet you that he becomes one of the great players of the game—just happened to him, but his speed on the bases he can definitely trace.

His father, George Washington Martin, won the family's first home in a foot race, starting from scratch at the crack of the gun, for a mile dash across the prairies to stake his claim to several choice acres during one of Oklahoma's land grants.

His mother wanted him to become a lawyer or a doctor, Oklahoma City tried to make a shortstop of him, Greenville a second baseman, and Branch Rickey an outfielder. He wanted to be a pitcher, the Athletics wish he'd stayed in Oklahoma.

Kiekhefer Is Only Unbeaten Billiardist

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Thanks to young Jake Schaefer of San Francisco, Augie Kiekhefer, Chicago southpaw, today was the only undefeated player in the world three cushion billiards championship tournament.

Kiekhefer and Otto Reisel of Philadelphia started the second week of the tournament unbeaten in three starts, but Schaefer found him self last night and played brilliantly to defeat the Philadelphian 50 to 31 in 40 innings. Schaefer had a high run of nine, bettered only by 13 made by Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago, defending champion, Saturday.

In the other match last night Tiff Denton of Kansas City, former champion, accounted for his first victory in four tournament starts, defeating another former champion Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., 50 to 46 in 57 innings. Both played well, but Denton, at his best for the first time since the tournament opened Monday, had the better finish.

Kiekhefer will risk the leadership against the shots of Jay Bozeman of Vallejo, Cal., in the second game of tonight's schedule.

In the other matches, Len Kenny of Chicago will meet Denton in the first afternoon match; Reisel will meet Allen Hall of Chicago, in the second daylight game, and Frank I. Scoville of Buffalo, will play Bud Wethus of St. Louis.

THIS WEEK WILL BE BUSY ONE IN BOXING INDUSTRY

Several Important Matches Announced During The Week

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The boxing industry starts its active week tonight by trying to fill the vacant middle-weight throne, puts on a featherweight championship match Wednesday, and a welterweight title duel Thursday, and then winds up by pairing two young and promising heavyweights in the persons of King Levinsky and Max Baer.

Since Mickey Walker elected to cast his lot among the heavyweights the middleweight championship has been without an owner. Tonight at Milwaukee however, Gorilla Jones, Akron Ohio, Negro, and Oddone T. Piazza, of Italy will box ten rounds, the winner to be recognized by the National Boxing Association as 160-pound ruler of the world.

Bat Battalino of Hartford, Conn., still recognized by the N. B. A. as a featherweight champion, meets tonight Freddy Miller of Cincinnati in a bout billed as for the title in Cincinnati Wednesday night. Battalino, stripped of his crown by the New York State Athletic Commission recently when he failed to make the class limit for a scheduled title defense against Lew Feldman, gave Miller a thorough trouncing when they first met several months ago.

The Chicago Stadium will play host Thursday night to the welterweight championship with Lou T. Brouillard of Worcester, Mass., seeking to turn back the challenge of Jackie Fields of Los Angeles, former holder of the title.

Levinsky and Baer will square off against one another Friday night in the feature ten-rounder of Madison Square Garden's weekly show.

New York —The twilight of life is taking on a pleasant glow for Mrs. Ida E. Wood, the 93-year-old eccentric who last October was found living alone with her memories — and $750,000 in cash.

The unpleasantness of the days when she was declared incompetent and placed in the guardianship of a nephew is being dissipated by kindness and care. A new routine is displacing her quarter-century-old habits of defiant isolation. Friends are attempting the gradual translation of her dimmed mind from a story-book world of lavender and old lace to the twentieth century.

Mrs. Wood is beginning to realize that her fortune is intact and safe, that she can have anything she wants (except too many cigars) and that no one wishes her harm. She is becoming reconciled to the presence of the brisk nurses and the visits of Dr. William V. P. Garrettsen. Although she still dons her ancient and entirely useless spectacles to glare at unfamiliar visitors, it may be that she secretly enjoys being the center of so much attention.

For Ida Wood was a great belle in her day, and she has lost little of her imperious manner. But she still lives almost wholly in the past. She never has seen a movie, heard a radio, or ridden in an automobile.

But she well remembers her social triumphs of the '60s and '70s—the parties she gave, the presidential inaugural balls, the time she danced with Edward VII when he was the Prince of Wales.

Before her husband, Benjamin Wood, died in 1900 she had become a rich woman. But she was terror-stricken by the panic of 1907, liquidated everything she owned, and went into voluntary exile.

Strange Seclusion Broken

Last autumn she was discovered in two amazingly littered rooms in the old Herald Square Hotel. Otis Wood, her nephew, was made her guardian. Three-quarters of a million dollars in large bills were found on her person. Almost a peck of jewels were appraised at hundreds of thousands. A $100,000 gold certificate was swept from under the bath tub. Forty trunks revealed scores of gowns (with 14-inch waists) which were museum pieces, heirloom lace, love letters, mementoes, daguerreotypes, 500 yards of twine and about a barrel of soap, collected from hotels in many cities.

She had saved everything, spent almost nothing, since adopting her life of seclusion. Her one great, haunting fear was poverty. She had lived on canned beans, boiled eggs and tea—prepared by herself over a gas plate in her apartment.

Mrs. Wood resented to the point of violence the intrusion of doctors and lawyers. "All I want," she said, "is to be left alone."

So far as was consistent with her physical welfare, her wish was satisfied. But now she is learning anew the pleasures of companionship. She does not understand that contemporary celebrities of her youth are dead, and wonders why more of her old friends don't drop in for visits. She talks sometimes of driving up Fifth Avenue again in her carriage. Dr. Garrettsen has promised that she may, if her health continues to improve.

Likes Shampoos, Manicures

A weekly shampoo and daily manicures are her special delight. Since night and day are one to her nearly-blind old eyes, she often sits at a dressing table until 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning, arranging her wispy coiffure in preparation for an imaginary ball. Sometimes she calls for a favorite gown—remembering, perfectly in which trunk it will be found—and attempts to sew on it holding the material of couple of inches from her eyes.

"All my aunt's faculties have improved under proper diet and care," said Otis Wood. "Even her sight and hearing are noticeably better. She walks without a cane, and although we haven't been able to get her on a scale, we are sure she is gaining in weight."

"But she is still like a willful child, and sometimes has tantrums. We try to avoid all mention of money, but every time a nurse puts a tray of food before her she demands to know how much it cost. At first, if the amount was more than a dollar she refused to eat, so the doctor instructed the nurse always to name a low figure."

"But my aunt was canny. Now she demands to see the food receipts so the nurse has to put cashiers' slips—not always accurate ones—besides her plate."

Bank Books—and Lloyd

She still cherishes a little gray bag, made for her by her mother, in which she kept $400,000 in cash until the courts intervened and placed that and another $350,000 in a bank. The bag now contains a much-thumbed bank book, to which she constantly refers, and a number of bills which she uses for her small needs.

At all times of the day and night she still rings for Lloyd, Negro bell-boy who for years shopped for her frugal groceries. She tips him, though never lavishly, and asks her two stock questions: "Lloyd, what's the weather today?" "Lloyd, what's the time?"

Cigars Cut Down

Dr. Garrettsen found her smoking cigars "with evidence of real enjoyment," when he first attended her. But Mrs. Wood has a cardiac heart, so he's being very strict with her about those little black stogies.

Sometimes she peers at an old album in which are included pictures of Lincoln, Mrs. Stephen A. Douglas and Mrs. Jefferson Davis. In her Bible, dated 1759, she has other mementoes—a pressed flower, a lacy valentine with the saccharine verse of the '60s, an invitation to President Harrison's inaugural ball.

But mostly she just sits, silent and apparently content—a brooding, tiny gray ghost of a day that is dead.

Wets And Drys Are Agreed On One Thing

Washington, Jan. 25 — (AP)—Two diametrically opposed sources found themselves today in agreement in asserting the present dry strength of the Senate an incontestable one.

A statement by Senator Bingham, Repn. Conn., analyzing the result of the Senate vote on his resolution asking Governors to submit repeal or modification to the people of their states, said:

"The vote in the Senate demonstrates what the country has not appreciated how very dry the Senate is and how helpless are expectations of repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

Said the Anti-Saloon League: "Boasted wet strength in the new Congress failed to materialize in the first test vote. . . . The defeat of the Bingham resolution refutes wet claims of large accessions to the wet strength in the present Senate."

Bingham used to point to demonstrate why he is working for modification instead of repeal.

He Needed an Overcoat—So He Shot The Biggest Grizzly Bear in the World

John M. Holzworth says goodbye to ursus holzworthi . . . which he shot in Alaska . . . at this largest grizzly ever discovered goes into the hands of G. H. Sherwood (right), director of the American Museum of Natural History.

BY DEXTER H. TEED

NEA Service Writer

New York—The largest grizzly ever discovered stands watchful. His teeth are bared and his huge 1200 pound bulk suggests enormous strength. These powerful paws could tear a man to pieces.

But the great grizzly, stuffed and reconstructed, just placed in the American Museum of Natural History, is quite harmless now.

John M. Holzworth, Manhattan attorney, was musing through the interior of Alaska. With him was a party of six. He was after photographs of grizzlies.

Suddenly a blizzard swirled out of the cold Arctic. It was far below zero, the wind roared around them, the snow was a blinding screen. They plodded on. And when a lull came, Holzworth saw indistinct outlines of a huge bear.

He wanted that picture. Directing his party to camp and wait, he started after the bear alone. The storm came again. He stalked the bear as it lumbered on. But the snow was so thick he couldn't take a picture. Soon he realized he was lost—and the wind was worse and the cold was bitter. Night was coming. He feared freezing to death.

He did the only thing. Although he is chairman of the National Committee for Preservation of Alaska grizzly and brown bears, he raised his rifle, aimed, fired. He shot three times and killed the bear.

Only then did he discover its enormous size. He skinned it and used the skin to keep warm. Two days later, climbing a high mountain after the storm was over, he saw the fire of his party and rejoined them.

The dead grizzly was eventually brought to New York and turned over to George D. Pratt, who had it stuffed and presented to the museum.

Holzworth has obtained more than 200 pictures of grizzlies in action. Some he faced at close range, others he "shot" with a camera at long distance. He came away from Alaska with the conclusion that grizzlies are harmless if not molested but terrifyingly dangerous if aroused.

Now he is trying to prevent them from becoming extinct. His plan is to have the national government set aside Admiral and Chicago islands, off the Alaskan coast, as permanent sanctuaries for the four species of Alaskan bears.

Four Killed While Enroute To Funeral

Washington, Ind., Jan. 23 — (UP)—Four persons, riding in an automobile in a funeral procession, were killed instantly 10 miles east of here today when their machine was demolished by a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train.

The dead: Mrs. Marion Graves of near Washington.

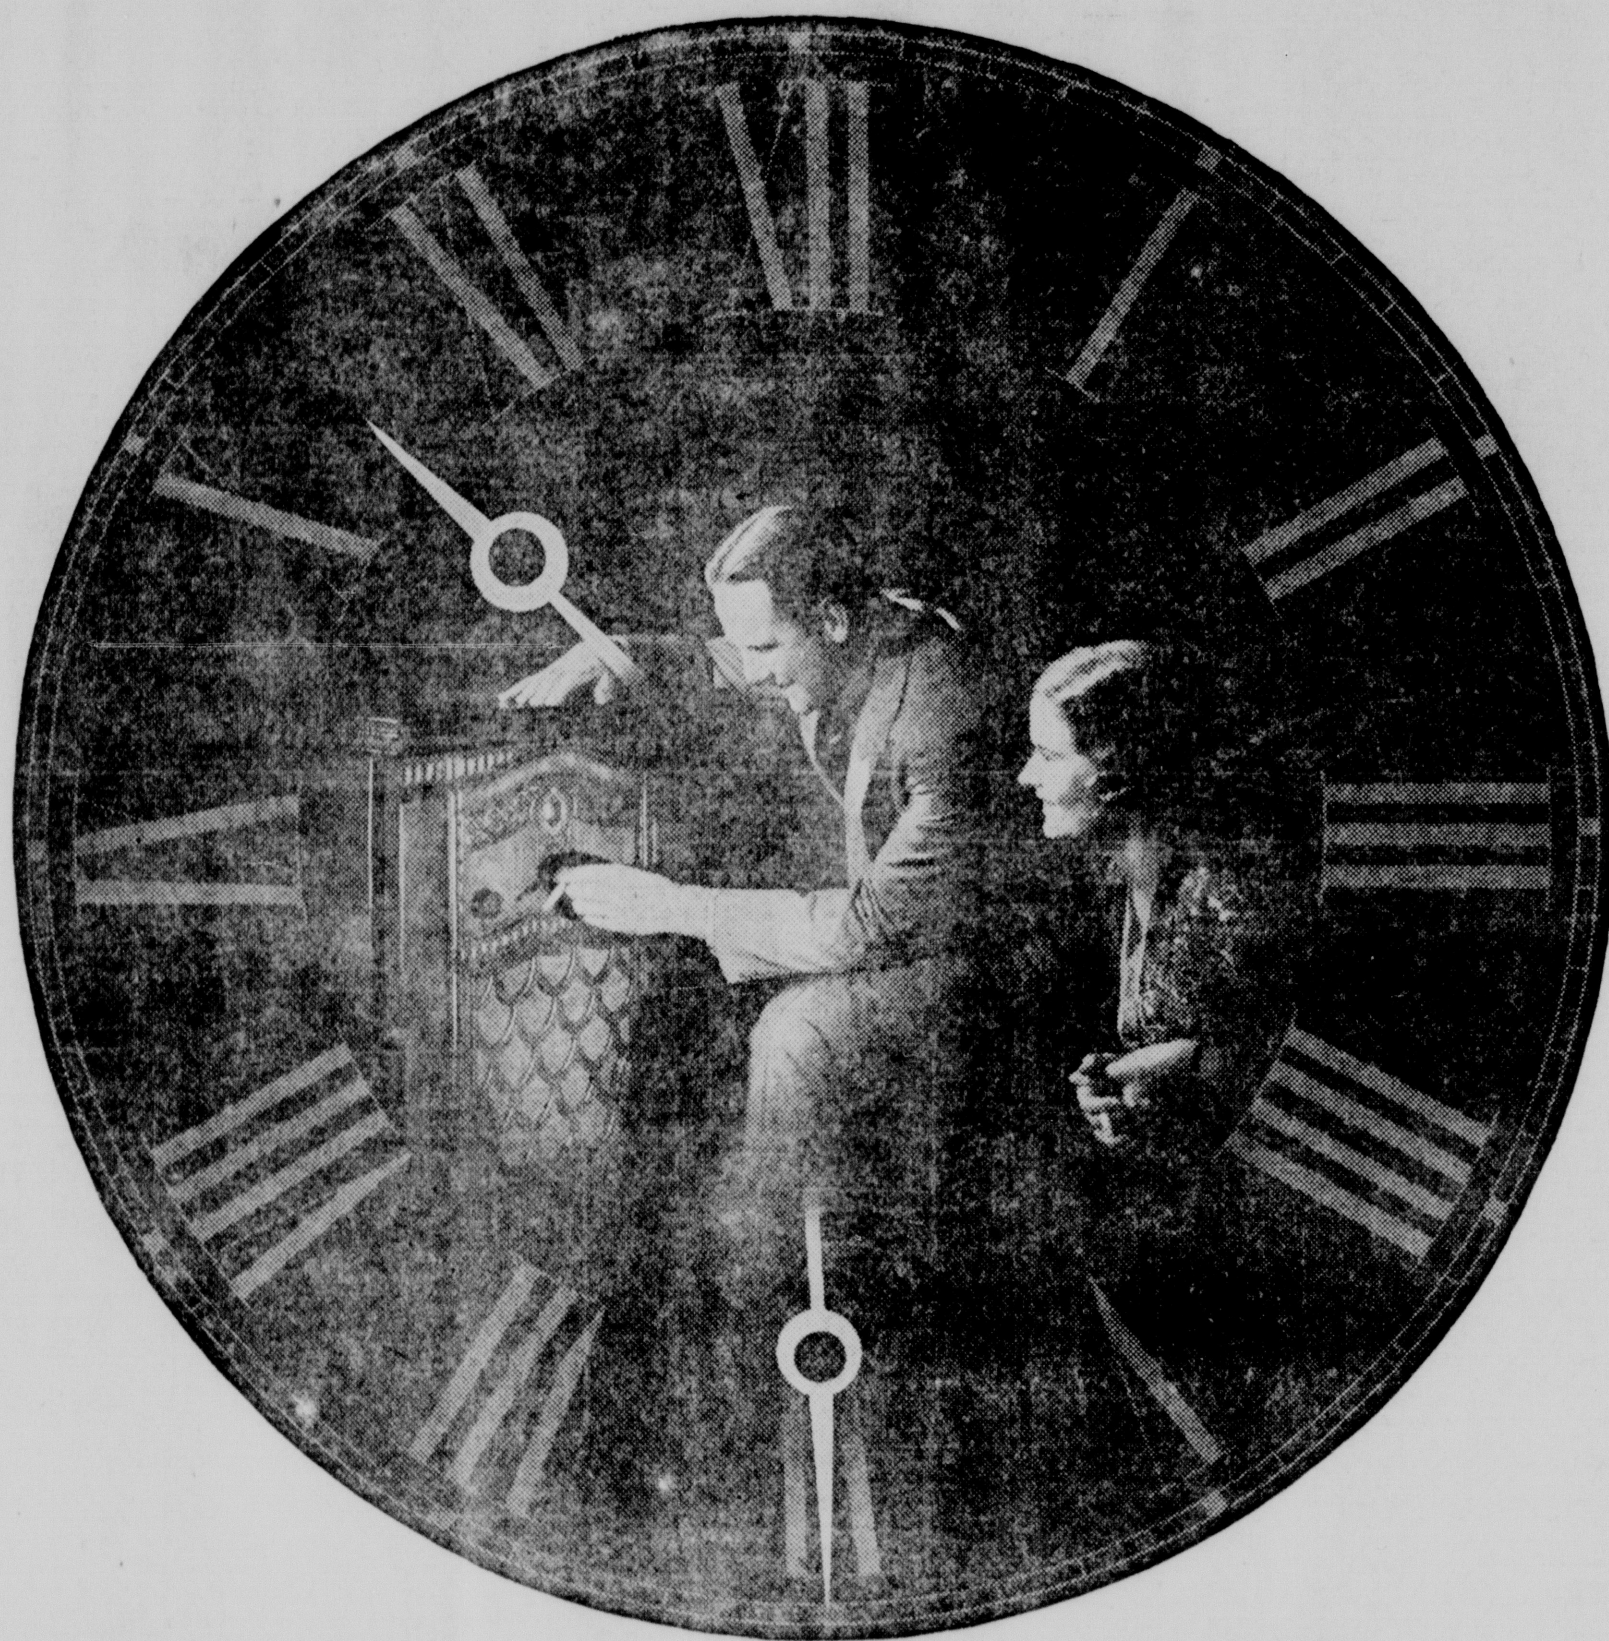

Plus Graves, her son, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith of Washington.

The victims were en route from a church to the cemetery in funeral rites for Mrs. Lawrence Noland. They were among the last to leave the church and were near the rear of the procession. Others waved and shouted to them as the train approached, but side-curtains on their automobile hampered their vision.

Mrs. Smith was Mrs. Graves' daughter.

HAS ADDISON'S DISEASE

Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 23 — (AP)—Stricken with Addison's disease, an unusual malady, for which until recently no known cure has been devised, Dr. E. Franc Morrill, medical Director of the Royal Neighbors of America, is confined to her home undergoing treatment with a drug now discovered. The drug, known as corten, was rushed here by air yesterday from New York.
